DINGOLFING MUSEUM

Dingolfing Museum is situated in the old upper town (“Obere Stadt”). The historically significant architectural complex comprises three buildings, all constructed between 1410 and 1477: the Herzogsburg (ducal castle), one of the most beautiful and best-preserved secular late Gothic buildings in Lower Bavaria, the Pflughof (infirmary)

INDUSTRIAL HERITAGE

The former granary houses an exhibition over an area of approx. 1,000 m² showing the industrial development of Dingolfing, from a seed drill to a high-tech car. It documents the successful history of the Glas company in Lower Bavaria, which opened its first production site in Dingolfing in 1905 and whose legendary Goggomobil turned the town

GUIDED TOURS

Our guided tours of the museum are an excellent way to explore Dingolfing Museum. Our expert tour guides will familiarise you with Dingolfing’s fascinating history, providing you with a wealth of background detail. You can find all the relevant detail, our current programme of events and additional information at www.museum-dingolfing.de.

and the Getreidekasten (granary). All three buildings are part of the museum and communicate the fascinating story of Dingolfing and its history from its beginnings right up to the present day. The charm of the restaurant Al Monte complements the appeal of the museum, enticing visitors to discuss their experience in elegant surroundings. The museum shop also invites visitors to linger a while...

into an important industrial centre from 1955 onwards. Following the company’s acquisition by BMW AG in the 1970s, it became the location of one of the most modern car factories in the world. Today Dingolfing is the largest production site within the global BMW Group. The collection focuses on exhibits that show the path through the industrial era.

WEDDING IN THE MUSEUM

The ground floor of the Herzogsburg houses the chamber used for civil wedding ceremonies, which, together with the inner courtyards of the museum and the restaurant Al Monte, form the perfect backdrop for the most wonderful day of your life. Ask us about our „Wedding package“ (guided tour and admission for just € 50.00).

TOWN HISTORY

In contrast, the 1500 or so exhibits in the Herzogsburg bring Dingolfing’s rich history to life – from its Neolithic roots to the very recent past.

CULTURE IN THE MUSEUM

The historic surroundings of the Herzogsburg give all the events held there – whether concerts, readings, seminars or exhibitions – their own special flair.
